AQUA DE MAGNOLIA.—The prettiest thing, the "sweetest thing," and the most of it for the least money. It over comes the odor of perspiration; softens and adds delicacy to the skin; is a delightful perfume; allays headache and inflammation, and is a necessary companion in the sick-room, in the nursery, and upon the toilet sideboard. It can be obtained everywhere at one dollar per bottle.

S. T.—1860.—X—The amount of Plantation Bitters sold in one year is something startling. They would fill Broadway six feet high, from the Park to 4th street.—Drake's manufactory is one of the institutions of N. York. It is said that Drake painted all the rocks in the eastern States with his cabalistic "S. T.—1860.—X," and then got the old granny legislators to pass a law "preventing disfiguring the face of nature," which gives him a monopoly We do not know how this is, but we do know the Plantation Bitters sell as no other article ever did. They are used by all classes of the community, and are death on Dyspepsia—certain. They are very invigorating when languid and weak, and a great appetizer.

WHAT DID IT?—A young lady, returning to her country home after a sojourn of a few months in New York, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a rustic, flushed face, she had a soft, ruby complexion, of almost marble smoothness; and instead of 22, she really appeared but 17. She told them plainly she used Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and would not be without it. Any lady can improve her personal appearance very much by using this article. It can be ordered of any Druggist for only 50 cents.

WILL YOU GO?

We'er traveling home to heaven above,
Will you go?
To sing the Saviour's dying love;
Will you go?

Millions have reached that blessed shore,
Their trials and labors all are o'er,
But still there's room for millions more,
Will you go?

We'er going to walk the plains of light,
Will you go?
Far, far from death, and curse and night;
Will you go?

The crown of life we then shall wear,
The conqueror's we then shall bear,
And all the joys of heaven share;
Will you go?

We'er going to see the bleeding Lamb;
Will you go?
With joyful songs to praise his name;
Will you go?

Our sun will then no more go down,
Our moon no more will be withdrawn,
Our days of mourning past and gone;
Will you go?

The way to heaven is straight and plain,
Will you go?
Repent, believe, be born again;
Will you go?

The Saviour cries aloud to thee,
"Take up thy cross and follow me,"
And thou shalt my salvation see;
Will you go?

O, could I hear some sinner say,
"I will go."

O, could I hear him humbly pray,
"Make me go,"

And all his companions tell,
"I will not go with you to hell,
I long with Jesus Christ to dwell;
Let me go."

ADVENTURE WITH ROBBERS.

BY J. OSBORN DAVIS.

At a somewhat early period in the present century, in the year 18—, I was employed as a sort of an agent by one of the richest and most flourishing firms in Sacramento. I was generally employed in transferring papers, &c., and often large sums of money were entrusted to my care for me to deliver to the respective business connections located in different sections of the State. I usually accomplished those journeys on horseback but. I would sometimes provide myself with a boat and traverse the greater part of my journey on the noble waters of the Sacramento; this of course would be determined by the locality I wished to visit.

About twenty-five miles below Sacramento was a dark and dreary glade called "The Black Dale." At the time to which I refer there dwelt in this place a band of "Freebooters." Their depredations were chiefly confined to plunder and theft; but as every one judged they would not long consider the propriety of taking a man's life in order to get a good haul of gold and valuables. Previous to the time my story opens I had passed and repassed this haunt without meeting with any adventures and I had almost ceased to consider the danger to which I was exposing myself in passing within pistol shot of the gang, when I was bro't to a sensible conclusion in regard to my danger as the following lines will show.

One morning Mr. B., the head partner of the firm to whom I had engaged my services, directed me to get ready for a trip down the river, as they had a large sum of money, amounting to some five thousand dollars, consisting of a considerable amount of gold, the balance in checks and drafts, to transfer to a branch of the firm at W. In about two hours I was fully equipped for my journey. I had the money safely deposited in my skiff, with sufficient provisions to suffice for the time employed in making the trip, usually about three days.

After receiving my final instructions I started down the river and traversed a good part of my journey without meeting with any adventures. At night I fastened the boat along the shore, closely screened by the bushes, and laying in the bottom of it with a couple of blankets over me slept soundly until morning. After eating a hasty breakfast I again resumed my journey down the river. About the middle of the afternoon had passed when I passed the "The Black Dale." I saw no living being until I was about three miles past the "Dale." I was then surprised to hear a man halloo, and looking toward the shore from whence it came, I saw a man standing almost in the water's edge making furious gesticulations for me to stop and take him in. I noticed as he ran along the shore to keep pace with me that he appeared extremely lame. Forgetting my usual caution in my anxiety to relieve a fellow being in distress I immediately turned the bow of the boat toward the shore. The instant it touched the bank he sprang in with an agility that seemed to me to poorly correspond with his apparent former lameness. I rose to my feet, when, seeing my doubtful look, he sank, as though exhausted, in the bottom of the boat. He appeared to be a man of about forty, stoutly made, and with a terrible evil look about his face. I regarded him with an eye of suspicion and determined that he should gain no advantage over me, through any want of watchfulness on my part. I had two trusty pistols in my belt, and on any attempt of treachery on the part of him I would not hesitate to use them. Sitting down in my seat again, I unconcernedly asked him several questions as to who he was, what was the matter, and where he wanted to go. He said he had been out hunting and while pursuing some game had been set upon by half a dozen freebooters, and endeavoring to defend himself had been shot in the leg. After overpowering him he said they had taken his gun and pistols from him and let him go again. As if to convince me of the truthfulness of his statement he directed my attention to a large bandage tied around his left leg above the knee. I asked him where he lived and he said he dwelt about five miles farther down the river, and if I was agreed he would remain in the boat until he got home. To this I of course assented, although I did not more than half believe his story, and determined to keep a strict watch on him.

After rowing for about half an hour and feeling somewhat fatigued by the exercise, I requested the stranger to take the oars. He expressed his willingness to do so, and I got down in the bow of the boat with my face towards him. Owing to the exertion of the rowing the blouse which he wore tightly buttoned around him became partly unbuttoned and I saw beneath it in a belt two pistols and a huge knife.

The truth flashed upon me. My former suspicions were fully verified. Before me sat a desperate robber waiting his opportunity to take my life in order to get the money which he had by some means learned was concealed in the boat. One thing, however, I had the advantage over him for the present. I determined to act. Thrusting my hand beneath my coat I drew forth a pistol, cocked it, and stepping within three feet of the astonished robber, said in a deliberate voice:

"Villain, I know you; it is useless to try any more decoys over me. Attempt anything more of the sort and you are a dead man."

The suddenness of the action seemed to paralyze him, and for one moment he ceased his rowing but seeing my determined air resumed his labor. I stood thus for a few moments when happening to glance up the river I saw coming round a curve about half a mile above us a boat containing two men, both evidently rowing as hard as they could. The instant they saw us they uttered a loud halloo and seemed to redouble their exertions to overtake us. I glanced at the man before me and saw at a glance that he too had heard the shouts by the gleam of savage exultation, which shot across his visage. I pointed my pistol at his head, and thundered out to him to row faster or he would get a death shot. The poor wretch knew I was in earnest, and redoubled his exertions. Under the involuntary labor he bestowed upon the oars, the boat seemed to shoot forward like an arrow. I measured the distance between me and the pursuing boat, and saw that the distance had already diminished at least one sixth.

The river at this point was very rocky, and several huge boulders protruded above the surface. I did not notice this, and before I was aware of his intention the man at the oars had stuck the boat between two rocks, where it stuck like a wedge. The shock came unexpectedly and I fell the length of myself in the boat. I sprang to my feet as quickly as possible, but not before the robber had grasped his pistol and fired it full at my head. The ball grazed my temple, but before he had regained his other pistol I sent a ball whizzing through his brain. The poor wretch uttered a howl of death, and fell over the side of the boat sinking to the bottom of the river, like a bar of lead.

My pursuers now within five hundred yards of me, seeing their companion fall into the water evidently killed, they rested on their oars for a few minutes, as if undecided what to do. Finally uttering a cry of rage they again bent on their oars and seemed to come toward me with the velocity of a race horse. A thought struck me. If I could but disengage the boat from between the rocks. I believed I could outstrip my pursuers. To think in such a moment was to act. I looked for an oar with which to pry the boat off, when to my horror and dismay I discovered the robber, when he had stuck the boat had thrown the oars overboard to prevent me from using them. That hope was gone; I would have to fight it out. I determined on a piece of strategy. The two robbers were now within two hundred yards of me, endeavoring from all appearances to get on the broad side of me. I threw myself in the bottom of the boat at the stern end which entirely concealed me from their view. I immediately warmed myself to the other end of the boat without letting my enemies see me. I had scarcely done so when the report of a pistol sounded in my ears, and was followed by a thug in the side of the boat at the end from which I had just moved. Had I remained in my former position I would have been undoubtedly struck by the ball. Another crack, and another ball came crashing through the boat somewhat nearer to me. Scarcely had the ball penetrated the timber when I uttered a loud moan. I distinctly heard the men utter a shout of triumph, followed by the distinct plash of the oars. I grasped my remaining pistol and awaited the results. I lay perfectly still till the bow of their boat struck mine, when I sprang to my feet and discharged my pistol at the nearest robber. The ball struck his right arm and crushed the bone. The pistol he held in his hand flew into the water. His companion seized his knife and sprang into my boat. I dropped my pistol and seized my own knife; he was a large, powerful man, but strength could not long contend against practice and science; at the third pass I plunged my knife to the hilt in his cowardly heart, and he fell to the bottom of the river to keep his companion company. I looked for the wounded robber. He had took heed to the better part of valor and had swam ashore and escaped.

I succeeded in getting possession of the oars the other boat contained, and after getting my boat disengaged, proceeded without interruption on my journey. When I arrived at my destination I gave the proper authorities a narration of my adventure, and they sent a proper force to capture or kill the desperadoes. They had made repeated assaults on the inhabitants of the country, and it was considered high time that they were disposed of. The rascals however got scent of the approach of the officers and cleared the country, no doubt to vegetate in a more appreciative locality.

A Bashful Man in Love.

A correspondent of a sporting paper tells the following capital story of the adventures of a bashful lover.

His name was Jackson; we used to call him Jack, for short. Heaven help me if he should see this story; I hope he does not get the paper.

Among many of his misfortunes, for he was cockeyed, red haired and knockkneed—he numbered the inconvenient one of bashfulness; nevertheless, he was fond of the ladies; although when in their presence, he never opened his mouth if he could help it, and when he did speak, he used both hands to help him; in fact, he was a man of "great actions."

Jack, one warm day, fell in love; he had just graduated at college, and began to think he must seek the ladies' society; he was getting to be a man, and it was manly to have a "penchant."

So Jack fell in love with the sweetest, liveliest, most heydenish girl in the square; but how to tell his love! there was the rub. He had heard a good deal of the "language of the eyes," and he accordingly tried that, but when he looked particularly hard at the window where Miss Emily was in the habit of sitting, some persons on the other side of the street would invariably bow to him, thinking he was endeavoring to catch their eye. He has despised expressive eyes ever since then.

At length, Jack obtained an introduction through his sister, and with her he called several times, but she was obliged to leave the city for the season, and as each interview only increased his ardor, he determined on going it alone.

Long before the hour fixed upon by custom for an evening visit, he found himself arrayed in his best. Blue coat, metal buttons, black cassimere pants, (said pants being a leetle tighter than the skin.) and a spotless vest.

The journals of the day stated, as an item of intelligence, that the thermometer ranged from seventy five to eighty degrees. Jack swears it was a hundred.

As the hour gradually drew near, Jack found his perspiration and his courage oozing out together; and he almost determined to pull off and stay at home. He concluded, however, he'd take a walk past the house, and see how he felt.

By the time he reached the mansion, he firmly concluded not to go in, but on casting his eyes toward the parlor window and perceiving no signs of life, he thought it was probable that no one was at home, and since he had proceeded so far, he would proceed farther, and leave his card.

No sooner determined than concluded. In a reckless moment he pulled at the bell; the darned thing needn't make such a cussed noise.

The door was opened as if by magic, and the servant girl politely asked him in. Miss Emily was alone in the parlor, and would be delighted to see him.

O Lord! here was a fix! go in a dark parlor with a pretty girl alone! It was too late to retreat, the girl had closed the front door, and was pointing into the parlor where Miss Emily was.

Being perfectly convinced that no choice was left him, into the dark room he walked or slided.

All was perfect chaos to his eye for a moment, but only for a moment; then from the deepest gloom came forth an angel voice, "bidding him welcome and draw near." To obey the order was but the work of a moment, as he supposed, but he little dreamt of the obstacle which fate had thrown in his way. He knew too well that the stream of love had many ripples, but full grown snags entered not into his head. Judge then of his astonishment at being tripped up almost at the fair one's feet, by a fat stool with plethoric legs, which chance or a careless servant had placed exactly on his road to happiness. Over he went, and as the tailor had not allowed for any extra tension of the muscles and sinews, he not only procured a tumble, but also a compound fracture extending all across that point which comes in closest contact with the chair.

Having picked himself up as careful as circumstances would allow, the smothered laugh of Miss Emily not "setting him forward any," he at least succeeded in reaching the chair, and drawing his coat tails forward to prevent a disagreeable expose, sat himself down with as much grace as a bear would when requested to dance upon a pile of needles.

The young lady was almost suffocated with laughter at the sad misfortunes of the bashful lover, felt truly sorry for him, and used all her powers of fascination to drive it from his mind, and eventually succeeded so far as to induce him to make a remark. On this rock he split.

Just at that moment she discovered she had lost her handkerchief. What had become of it! She was sure she had it when she came in. It must certainly be somewhere about.

"Haven't you got it under you, Mr. Jackson?"

Jack was sure he had not, but poor Jack, in venturing an answer, could not possibly get along without raising his hands, and of course he must drop his coat tail. In his anxiety to recover the missing viper, he even ventured to incline his body so as to get a glance on the floor. As he did so, the fracture opened, and behold there lay, as the lady supposed, her property.

It was the work of a moment to catch the corner and exclaim:

"Here it is, sir; you needn't trouble yourself about it. Just raise a little, it's under you;" at the same time she gave it a long, hard pull.

Alas! the tail was told; no escape, nothing short of a special interposition of Providence could save his shirt.

But what should he do? Another and another, stronger pull, evincing on the part of the lady a praiseworthy determination to obtain the lost dry goods, coupled with the request:

"Get up, sir, you're sitting on it," determined him: and in the agony of the moment, and grabbing with both hands a fast disappearing strip of linen which encircled his neck, he exclaimed:

"For God's sake, Miss Emily, leave my shirt collar!"

What is your young Daughter Thinking About?

You are very careful of her dress; you attend personally to its purchase and fit. You go with her to see that her foot is well and tastefully gaitered, and you give your milliner special instructions as to the style and becomingness of her bonnot, but do you ever ask yourself what she is thinking about? In other words, do you know anything of all her inner life? Many who are esteemed most excellent mothers are as ignorant on this all important point as if they had never looked upon the daughter's face. They exact obedience, and if the young creature yields it, and has no need of a physician's immediate services, they consider their duty done. Alas, what a fatal mistake! These are the mothers, who never having invited the confidence of these young hearts, live to she it bestowed anywhere and everywhere but in accordance with their wishes. Is it, can it be enough to a mother worthy the name, to be satisfied that her daughter's physical wants are cared for? What of that yearning hungry soul, that is casting about here and there for something to satisfy its questionings? Oh! I give a thought sometimes to this. When she sits there by the fire or by the window, musing, sit down by her and love her thoughts out of her. Cast that fatal "dignity" to the winds that had come between so many young creatures and the heart to which they should lie nearest in these important, forming years.

Respect is good in its place, but when it freezes up your daughter's soul utterance—when it sends her for sympathy and companionship to chance guides, what then? A word, a loving kind word at the right moment—no mind can over estimate its importance. Remember this when you see the sad wrecks of womanhood about you, and amid the sweeping waves of life's cares and life's pleasures, whatsoever else you neglect, do not fail to know what that young daughter of yours is thinking about.

A TERRIFIC SCENE.—A Minneapolis correspondent says: As one of our citizens was approaching his house a day or two since at the usual hour of dinner time, on reaching a distance from the house to which the human voice could penetrate from within it, he heard issuing from within screams of the most unparalleled terror. So piercing were they that the heart sunk within him, and he pictured to himself the heads of his loved one dabbled in blood, and some stalwart frame supporting the fiend "insanity" wielding cudgels, knives and axes among those he would sacrifice his own life to protect. He sprung to the rescue, rushed frantically into the parlor, and the scene which met his eyes beggars description. The sister of his youth, with one of his children frantically clasped in her arms, was standing upon the sofa apparently upon the verge of hysterics, and the wife of his bosom, with the other child in her arms, was crouched upon the piano, and in the opposite corner of the room, oh, horror! panting with fright, was a mouse, entirely unconscious of the terror he was the cause of, and trembling only for his own safety.

WHAT DO YOUNG MEN MARRY?—Some young men marry dimples; some ears, some noses, the contest however generally lies between the eyes and the hair, the mouth too, is occasionally married, all chin not so often. Poor partners, those, you will own. But young men do marry all these, and many other bits and scraps of a wife, instead of the true thing. Such as the marriage is, such is the after life. He that would have a wife must marry a woman. If he can meet with one of equal social position, like education, similar disposition, kindred sympathies, and habits congenial to his own, let him marry. But let him beware of marrying a curl or neck, however swan like, or a voice, however melodious. Young ladies do also make some queer matches, and unite themselves to whiskers.

☞Of the 233,417 immigrants who landed at New York last year, no less than 106,616, or nearly one half, were from Germany, while only 68,747 were from Ireland. The great increase in the proportion of German immigrants compared with Irish is an important and noticeable fact. The immigration from England is also becoming large, amounting last year to 36,186 persons.

Raw Meat in Disease--New Regimen for Pulmonary Consumption.

We stated some weeks ago that raw meat had been used by a European practitioner with signal success in a very large number of cases of pulmonary consumption. To-day we supply the desired information respecting the quantity and mode of preparing this new article of the materia medica, not only in this disease, but in chronic diarrhœa and cholera infantum, in which it has been found very beneficial. In doing so, we draw freely from a French work, Clinique Medicale, by the eminent Professor Trousseau, of Paris.

To obviate, in the beginning, the prejudices of the patient, it is best to propose the eating of the beef or the mutton very little done, and, if consent be obtained, to direct the cook to subject the meat to a hot fire for a few minutes, so as to brown it. Before serving it up to the patient, the outer or partially coated parts should be cut off, and the remainder, or raw part, cut up into small pieces, or well washed. Another mode of preparation consists in reducing the meat to a pulp, by first hashing, then beating in a mortar with a pestle, and mixing it up with some kind of preserves, currant jam or conserve of roses. Thus disguised, the nature of the mixture is not recognizable. Preferable, again, to either of these modes is that in which a kind of broth or gravy is made, by pressing through a cullender with very small holes the pulp prepared as above, so that the juice of the meat, its fibrin and blood, shall alone pass through, leaving in the strainer the vessels and cellular tissue.

This juice, etc., so far as it adheres, is to be scraped off the outer side of the sieve and collected for use. A more fluid and less concentrated broth is procured by putting half a pound of the lean and good beef mixed fine in a cullender, and passing through this half a pint of water, which is again to be poured on the meat, and thus passed and re-passed four or five times until all the soluble or richer parts come away. The last straining is to be put to one side for use, and given in doses of one or two tablespoonfuls at short intervals. Little balls may be made of the washed or pulpy meat, flavored in the manner already described, or with salt or sugar, according to the taste of the patient. In some cases good bread or biscuit, broken fine and mixed with the hashy soup, and flavored with a little vinegar or catsup, would prepare the patient for taking the raw meat alone. When it is not convenient to pound the meat into pulp, it may be reduced to nearly this state by tearing it off with the fork.

In adopting this regimen it is necessary to proceed with great caution, so as neither to cause insurmountable objections on the part of the patient nor to oppress the stomach. We begin for a child, by directing a small quantity, in weight equal, for example, to a dollar, in the twenty four hours, divided into five parts, each taken at some hours' interval. This quantity may gradually be increased to five or six times its weight, until five ounces are taken daily.

Brandy, recommended in addition to raw flesh in quantity beginning with a tablespoonful, or half an ounce, and gradually increased to four ounces, or half a tumblerful daily, for an adult. It is given in part mixed with the raw hash, etc., and in part as a drink with water. Other diseases, it will be remembered, were mentioned in our previous notices as being benefited by this treatment, viz: typhus and typhoid fever, diabetes, and in all cases in which there has been great loss or impoverishment of blood and waste of the body.

The use of raw flesh in disease is not a new thing. Dr. Trousseau has used it for many years, as have also, at his instance, Drs. Blanche and Roger, his colleagues at the Children's Hospital. The practice seems to have come regularly from the North, and public attention was directed to it by Dr. Weisse in Russia, who himself derived a knowledge of it from the mother of a child exhausted by calliguative diarrhœa. She asked for and obtained his consent to give the little patient raw flesh. Great was his surprise to see it on the following day, eating, with greediness, meat from which the blood flowed. He directed three tablespoonfuls of hashed raw meat daily. In a few weeks the patient, whose condition had been considered hopeless, was entirely restored.

EXTRAORDINARY ANSWERS.—A pupil of Abbe Sicord gave the following extraordinary answers:

"What is gratitude?',

"Gratitude is the memory of the heart."

"What is hope?,'

"Hope is the blossom of happiness."

"What is the difference between hope and desire?"

"Desire is a tree in leaf, hope is a tree in flower, and enjoyment is a tree in fruit."

"What is eternity?"

"A day without yesterday or to-morrow, a line that has no end."

"What is God?"

"The necessary being, the sun of eternity, the merchant of nature, the eye of justice, the watchmaker of the universe, the soul of the world."

"Does God reason?"

"Man reasons, because he doubts; he deliberates, he decides. God is omnicient. He never doubts, he therefore never reasons."

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

MUSCLE VS TALENT.—In the next Congress New York will have two representatives—Roscoe Conkling in the Senate and John Morrissey in the House—who will be fully able to take care of themselves. Roscoe it is said, is an accomplished boxer and ardent admirer of the "manly art," but never "toed the scratch," but John is proficient in both.

☞Ashley, the "Impeacher," is getting no very enviable reputation as a reward for his conspicuous bearing in Congress. He was born in this State, left at fifteen for the West, where he became in turn, a peddler of cheap jewelry among the negroes along the Mississippi, a "botch" printer, a poorly read lawyer, a boat builder, a seller of drugs, a newspaper publisher, &c., and withal a "renegade" from the Democratic party. Sic transit gloria mundi.

☞"Sloshin' around"—Dad Lewis, on political subjects. 'Twould puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to tell which side he is on.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

We can tell without half trying. We are on the side of the humbugged people, and opposed to having the wool pulled over our eyes by the rascally politicians. The politicians now have the country in charge—when they give us peace, quiet, prosperity and a Union, we may take a side with them merely for amusement. It don't require much manhood to follow in the footsteps of a master.

THE STAR OF EMPIRE.—The recent discussion in Congress of female voting and the speech of Senator Cowan in its favor, seem not to have been without their effect on the country. Already the subject has been broached in various State Legislatures, (whose jurisdiction over it is undisputed,) and in Maine the Legislature has gone so far as to pass "orders" looking to the abolition of all distinction between the sexes in the matter of suffrage. We shall thus probably soon have the matter put to a practical test in at least one of the States; and if the Maine franchise law confers the right of office-holding, we may ere long behold a female Governor with her lady councillors. The sex will then have something else than their waterfalls to think of.

ANIMOSITY TILL DEATH.—A despatch from Galveston, Texas, announces that great excitement has been occasioned by the interference of U. S. General Griffin in the obsequies of the rebel General A. S. Johnston. General Griffin has ordered that there be no public demonstration of respect to the memory of the deceased by the community, which feels his loss so much as to suspend business generally. He even restricted the people, friends as well as strangers, from following the funeral cortege. We cannot commend the course of General Griffin. To be sure there are some who believe that it is giving a license to rebellion, to allow such demonstration, but even in our own community who would raise his voice against the friends of a deceased neighbor, no matter how numerous his faults, from following his remains? There are some who forget that the Southern people were roused to resistance with the mistaken belief that their country was in danger, and that they were fighting for what they thought to be right. Many good men, many religious men, unfortunately entertained this belief, and from what we learn, Gen. Johnston, like Gen. Stonewall Jackson, was one of this class.

In any event, we cannot see why due respect to the memory of General Johnston as a friend, no matter what his follies or crime, should not have been allowed. We can readily divine the cause of the "great excitement," as announced, and we fear that this one act of mistaken justice on the part of General Griffin will but add fresh fuel to the vanity and bitterness of the Southern heart. When will we learn, as a people and individuals, to heap "coals of fire" on the heads of our enemies, by treating them with kindness and forbearance?

☞A Washington special to the Chronicle says: Hon. John Covode had an interview of some length with Secretary Stanton yesterday. Mr. Stanton was feeling very despondent, and remarked substantially that he had placed two million men in the field during the late war, six hundred thousand of whom had bitten the dust, or been maimed and crippled for life, and yet, contemplating all these sacrifices, he considered the country was in a worse condition than at any time during the war.

Who's to blame? The politicians.

HON. Thad. Stevens has been elected president of a fire company in Lancaster. We should like to see the old fellow running "widder merchene."

IT is reported that President Johnson will issue no more vetoes, as he thinks it useless to waste U. S. paper.

The Courage of Moderation.

Touching the impeachment project, the Albany Evening Journal says:

"It is the concurrent testimony of impartial observers at Washington, that the policy of entering upon a formal attempt to impeach the President, is growing in favor. If so, it is not, we are sure, because men's judgments are convinced, but rather because too many fear to interpose against the most extreme proposition. It now requires more courage to be moderate than to be extravagant."

There is much force in the concluding observation. Now, indeed, it "requires more courage to be moderate than to be extravagant." Extremes of opinion and violence of proposition and language, are the madness of the hour. Because the country has passed through a great war, or revolution, everything revolutionary seems to be considered in order. The Constitution is no longer venerated as by our fathers. Our whole Government, in the judgment of a certain class, is in need of radical change. Nothing is right in the eyes of these extremists. The noisiest part of public opinion, too, is on the side of extravagance. Moderate men quail before the current, and make but feeble efforts to guide or stem it. To hint at the wisdom of moderation is to incur obloquy as a "renegade," or a faint-hearted member of the great party of liberty and right. Multitudes are alive to the wrong and danger of this state of thing, but how few have the pluck to protest against it, or to labor in the cultivation of a healthier sentiment! Courage, then is one thing needed—courage to denounce and resist the revolutionary schemes of demagogues and adventurers; courage to stand by the Constitution as the ark of safety, and to insist that the charges which may be desirable to meet the new wants of the Republic shall be effected in a constitutional manner. As matters at present look, moderate men appear to have lost faith in the virtue of moderation, or to lack the nerve which is wanted in times like these.—N. Y. Times.

The English and French Press on Impeachment.

In France, both the imperialist and Liberal journals look on the impeachment movement as being revolutionary in its nature. Touching, as it does, the highest functionary of the State—aiming, as it does, at his forcible removal from office—based, as it is, on grounds so frivolous, and accompanied by accusations so gross—doubtful as seems the issue of the contest, and uncertain as appears the course of events subsequent to it—the affair is inexplicable to them on any other theory than that of the "revolution." As a consequence the gravity of the movement is discerned, and the report to such an expedient is on all hands deprecated. Of course we should expect such a journal as La Liberte to indulge in high-sounding rhetoric on the subject, somewhat akin to that of our impeachers here; but even those who are inclined to talk thus feel that impeachment marks a crisis beyond which our career must be dubious and unsteady. The protests of the Temps and the Presse are no less emphatic than that of La France, and, in fact, we may say that the organs of all parties are unanimous and decided in their remonstrances against the threatened measure.

The chief organs of English thought treat the impeachment business as by far the most serious and perilous procedure in our political history. Nearly all of them, like their French contemporaries, apply to it the word "revolution," and look upon its origin and pretext, as well as its probable results, as indicative of the prevalance of a revolutionary feeling in the country. The Times, the Pall Mall Gazette, and the Saturday Review—each regarding the matter from the standpoint of the ruling classes—are agreed as to its character, while the more respectable of the Liberal organs are no less strenuous in deprecating it as dangerous to the repose of the country and the permanence of free institutions. Of course all that they say against the measure is based on the ground upon which it has been urged, and the objects that are sought by it. In this view, the Times remarks that the "trial of the President will transform the Constitution," and the following sentences which we bring together give the points of its opinion:

"It may be, and no doubt is, galling to the dominant party in Congress to be thwarted as they have been by one man; but the Constitution gives him the power, and it is of that they ought to complain. It is, in truth, the Constitution, rather than Mr. Johnson, which is now the object of assault; it is the Constitution, rather than Mr. Johnson, which is in danger. If the articles of his impeachment be truly drawn they will make the first charge against him that he has used all the powers of his office, and by the side of this all other offences are as nothing. Let the impeachment be prosecuted with the determination which is said to inspire its managers, and its results will be much more portentous than the mere removal of Mr. Johnson from his place. The Presidency itself will cease to be what it has been, and the balance which now exists upon the legislative action of Parliamentary majorities will vanish. * * * We need not, however, dwell upon the future; it is sufficient to note the phase through which the American Constitution appears to be passing, the danger that the artificial balance of powers, the checks upon impulsive legislation, the independence of the Executive Government contemplated by the founders of the Republic will all be swept away."

The Pall Mall Gazette points out the lack of definition in all the accusations against President Johnson. After a keen discussion of this point, and after expressing a fear that the judicial view of the case may be lost sight of in the excited state of party feeling, it concludes by the utterance of a strong hope that

"The Senate will give the world one more example of the fact which is so often overlooked and obscured that the passionate external violence of the American character and manners overlays and conceals a solid foundation of good sense, moderation, and regard for law which makes itself felt in the long run and on great occasions."

The Saturday Review treats the proposed impeachment at length, and with signal ability. It analyzes the powers of the different branches of the Government, as set forth in the Constitution, shows the peculiar position which the President has among the rulers of States, and tries to discover his culpability as set forth in the various charges brought against him:

"The President," it remarks, "stands on a present basis of Constitutional right; while Congress is acting in formal defiance of the Constitution, and seems inclined, according to the latest accounts, to set the Constitution aside altogether, and to assert for itself the omnipotence of a British Parliament—the right of altering all laws, whether fundamental or incidental, whether part of the original compact of Union or mere measures of Congressional legislation, by a simple majority of both Houses. * * * The charges against him, correctly estimated, amount simply to this—that in the exercise of his executive power he has set at nought the wishes of Congress, and acted upon his own judgment; that he has carried out his own policy, and not the policy of a majority of the two Houses. And it is plain, not only that an impeachment on such a ground as this would be a gross abuse of a remedy intended for a very different purpose, but that it would totally alter the existing relations between the Executive and the Legislature, and subvert the present Constitution of the Federal Government. The Federal Constitution has explicitly made known the purpose for which this formidable weapon may be drawn. It was never meant to enable Congress to get rid of a political opponent. Had it been intended that Congress should be able to remove a President for political reasons, a machinery less cumbrous and less cruel would have been supplied."

There is nothing particularly novel about these views of the leading journals of Great Britain, and we do not quote them as affording any light to our politicians upon Constitutional questions. But they indicate the drift of intelligent European thought upon the most important matter in current American history. And they show that what is here only a subject of Congressional frivolity and partisan animosity is there regarded as of the gravest national import.—N. Y. Times.

Views on the Impeachment.

The N. Y. Tribune reminds Congress that the N. Y. Herald, which, it says, "now heads the hunt for the impeachment of President Johnson," is not a safe guide to follow. The Tribune adds: "If a necessity shall be found to exist for impeaching and ejecting from office a President of the United States, we are sure every considerate American will regard it as a deplorable necessity—one to be avoided if possible, and as long as possible. No patriot will wantonly or lightly shake the twin fabrics of public order and public credit." In another article the Tribune says: "The idea of impeaching and removing President Johnson has more strength in the House than we had supposed, and seems to be gaining supporters. However, it is not likely to be definitely acted on at the present session."

The New York Times says: "President Johnson; we understand, is in no wise alarmed at the menacing demonstrations made against him in Congress. If impeachment be determined upon in a constitutional way, he will throw no bar in the way of the fullest investigation of every charge, personal and political, upon which it may be founded. On the contrary, he will do all in his power to secure the most searching investigation into the facts of every accusation contained in the articles drawn up."

The New York Economist says:—Judged from a business standpoint, an impeachment trial at this time, with all its attendant excitement, would be almost a national calamity. Though the Republican organization may possess the power to remove the Executive, and he may have committed offenses open to impeachment, the cooler heads of both parties unite in condemning such a course as unwise and uncalled for."

The London Times of the 11th says: United States bonds were in great request until last Friday, when the vote for the impeachment of the President transpired and confidence in the steadiness of American affairs received a rude shock.

THE Delaware county Republican, one of the oldest papers in the State, speaking of the impeachment of the President, says:

"The foremost man in Congress in the measure of impeachment is Mr. Ashley, of Ohio, whose political record is by no means to our liking. We have some recollection of this gentleman in connection with certain active movements to defeat Mr. Lincoln for the presidency; and we remember the circulation of documents of the most defamatory character against that lamented statesman and patriot, which were scattered broadcast under Mr. Ashley's frank. We have no knowledge, on the other hand, of the gentleman's connection with any measure of practical utility for the Republican party or for the country."

☞The reader is presumed to retain distinct recollection of the jury "out West" somewhere, which, although the testimony against the man accused of stealing a hog was overwhelming, nevertheless pronounced him not guilty—a verdict that was subsequently explained by the simple remark, that nearly every man of the jury had some of the pork. Reasons kindred to this may explain why investigating committees seldom find anything out, and generally report that there is no ground for the charge of corruption.—Pittsburg Commercial.

M. S. Quay, Representative from Beaver and Washington District has introduced a resolution providing for a convention to amend the Constitution of this State, by striking the word white therefrom.

Poughkeepsie has been the scene of much pledging, two thousand persons having signed the temperance pledge since September last.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Information received in Washington from the frontier, official and otherwise, leads to the conclusion that a majority of the Western Indian tribes are now on the war path ready for a war of plunder and extermination against the whites.

Jan. 25.—The Republican Association of the District, at a meeting held last night, admitted several colored citizens as members, and proclaimed their intention to do so in case of every application—their standard of membership being merely a requirement that applicants shall be Republicans in politics and of good moral character.

The National Republican denies that an article favoring armed resistance to Congress, ever appeared in it, although it was credited to that journal in different parts of the country, accompanied by the statement that it was authorized and sanctioned by the President.

The Republican says that it has the highest authority for asserting that the article alluded to was not authorized or sanctioned by the President in any journal at any time.

Jan. 26.—A letter was received in this city to-day from a broker in New York, whose name and address can be furnished, and who is vouched for as reliable, charging that the sum of $50,000 was subscribed in that City to induce the offering of impeachment resolutions in the House. The letter refers to one broker who admits having subscribed $5,000. It does not appear that any money was ever paid. This may possibly explain the premature announcement in New York of the impeachment resolutions.

Pen and Scissor Items.

A woman in Coldwater, Michigan, asked for a divorce from her husband because he refused to wear a mustache. What think you, benedicts?

The Lancaster Inquirer printing office was entirely destroyed by fire on Sunday morning, 20th instant. Loss, $12,000; insurance, $8,000.

The official report on the famine in the East Indies shows that there were millions of deaths from starvation.—What a dreadful fact to be told in such few words!

A neighboring paper mentions the arrest of a woman "with nothing on her person but a love letter and a daguerreotype." This may be called a convenient summer toilet.

Napoleon's father was married at nineteen, and his mother, though a widow at thirty, had thirteen children. This is no excuse for people now-a-days to marry in haste and repent at leisure.

Among the distinguished arrivals in Washington on Sunday was the advent of a stranger in the person of a young daughter at the house of Mr. McCulloch, Secretary of the Treasury. Such a treasure he will safely keep.

The Ashtabula Sentinel says: A certain highly respectable lady of Dorset has, on three Christmas days out of the last four, presented her delighted husband with a little "responsibility." They should be little Christians.

Two million five cent pieces come from the Philadelphia mint every month. We expect to hear of many thoughtless men complaining that they received a five cent piece for a penny, of which size they are. Who will be the first to complain?

It is not generally known that the leaves of a geranium are an excellent application for cuts, where the skin is rubbed off, and other wounds of that kind. One or two leaves must be bruised and applied to the part, and the wound will be cicatrized in a short time. Those insured shouldn't try it.

Several of the large dry goods establishments in New York have established a detective force, which is employed to look after the clerks. The detectives visit all sorts of places, and if a clerk is seen where he should not be, a quiet dismissal and "no reasons given" follows at once.

The production of gold by all the mines in the United States for the year 1866 is estimated at about $93,200,000, an increase of nearly $20,000,000 over the estimated production of 1865. For the first eleven months of 1866 precious metals valued at $59,256,430, have been exported from New York to Europe.

The New York Herald's Richmond correspondent says: The people of the South have made up their minds to shake off the inaction of the last few months and take hold of the vital questions of the hour with vigor. There has been a decrease in the negro population of Virginia to the amount of 190,000.

The Legislature of Maryland and the Councils of Baltimore are at loggerheads. At a recent meeting of the latter body, held Tuesday night, a series of resolutions were adopted, denouncing the Legislature as rebellionists and revolutionists, and appropriating $20,000 to contest the validity of the act of the General Assembly removing the officers of the present city government.

In Chicago, a few days since, a young lady with a capacious waterfall, was out sleighing with her admirer, when they were overtaken by another sleigh, the horse of which grasped her waterfall, which had become powdered with snow, between his teeth. She screamed, away started the horses, and the hair pins came out, leaving her head greatly reduced in size and altered in shape. That horse must have smelt "rats."

☞The modus operandi of the counterfeiting gentry is described as follows: A suitable person approaches a first class engraver with an offer of $10,000 or even $20,000 for a plate. The latter is seldom able to resist this temptation and as he no doubt has a daily engagement in some bank note establishment, the work is done by him in over time, such as nights and Sundays. When the bills are printed they are distributed with surprising celerity and are "shoved" simultaneously in different parts of the Union. In this manner a large number is got off before suspicion is aroused. The best counterfeit greenback on record is the $50 issue which was at first accepted at the Treasury in Washington. Roberts, the artist who executed the plate, received $20,000 for his services, but was detected, and is now serving out a sentence of twenty years at Sing Sing.

"PODGERS," the spicy San Francisco correspondent of the New York Times, doesn't take that jovial view of Christmas—about which time his last letter is dated—as some people do. He looks at the mercenary as well as the merry side of the season, and speaks his mind after this fashion:

"That Christmas comes but once a year is our only salvation; if it came twice several people that I know of would be ruined. The smaller the circle of intimate friends one has the better for his purse. It wont do to count up the number too closely anyhow, and it is not a good plan to get too many people in a bad habit of expecting something, or giving you anything. It is a great deal like your sweetheart's giving you a pair of slippers—takes two dozen pairs of gloves, at a dollar and half a pair, to wipe out the obligation—very dear slippers and usually very poor ones, except when bought ready made down town. Smoking caps and slippers are weak inventions of the enemy, and are a first class fraud, 'worked by her own fair hands.' Stuff—bought at a furnishing store."

Isn't that a complacent bit of cynicism? We don't believe "Podgers" ever had any slippers.

IF there is any one thing that an Indian dreads above another it is our modern appliances for travel. This was exemplified last winter when Hole-in-the-day, Chief of the Chippewas, and his sub-chiefs were on their way to Washington. Arrived at the suspension bridge, Niagara, they were opposed to risking their precious selves upon any such contrivance as that, and preferred to cross by a canoe. But they were compelled to follow the fortunes of the cars, and so they made preparations for bidding farewell to earth and friends. They threw themselves flat upon the bottom of the cars, rolled themselves up in their blankets, and groaned hideously and incessantly until they were fairly on terra firma again.

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent
Duplex Elliptic
or Double Spring,
SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with cambic and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: 'J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs' upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.

Local Advertisements.

Advertisements (puffs or notices) published in local columns at ten cents a line single insertion, counting seven words to a line. tf.

Brief Items.

—Petty larcenies are becoming frequent in Mifflin county.

—Miss Mattie Buoy, of Lewistown, slipped and fell at her father's doorstep and broke her left arm.

—The locomotive Juniata exploded on Broad Top on Monday last. We did not learn particulars.

—Levi Grimsley, of Conemaugh borough, Cambria county, fell between two trucks and was badly smashed.

—Preaching in the Episcopal Church, by Rev. Mr. Childs, of Philadelphia, on next Sunday, morning and afternoon.

—Read the columns on the fourth page of this paper, and continue looking for something on that page in the future.

—The editor of the Mt. Union Times says although printing that paper is not profitable, "we can stand it, and will do so."

—A barkeeper was sentenced to pay $20 and the costs of prosecution for selling liquor without license. See court proceedings.

—A Baptist revival has been in progress for some time past at the Centre Union school house, on the Ridges, a short distance from town.

—The skating fever here, as in our sister New York, does not run as high as heretofore. Reason—there is no good ice to go it "high" on.

—A number of Mifflin county farmers have bought real estate in the Shenandoah Valley, West Virginia, and intend moving there in the spring.

—We had a fall of sleet on Friday night last, which made locomotion anything but safe and agreeable. No broken limbs to chronicle, fortunately.

—The Methodist revival still continues. The progress during last week was very favorable—there being as high as fifteen penitents in one evening.

—Maj. Ben. L. Hewit has declined the position of Chief Clerk in the State Department, tendered him by Colonel Jordan, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

—The Ebensburg Alleghanian, which has been suspended for the last three months, has again been revived by J. Todd Hutchinson, Esq. Success to the enterprising journalist.

—The Johnstown Democrat says the Ebensburg and Cresson Railroad will not probably be opened before we have a thaw. Mails and passengers between Cresson and Ebensburg are carried on sleighs.

—The Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society have determined to hold their next exhibition on the 24th, 25th and 26th of September. The place of exhibition has not yet been fixed upon. Huntingdon can propose.

—The Methodist Sabbath School children of this place raised nearly $20 missionary money on Sunday last. A regular missionary meeting is held on the fourth Sunday of every month. It is expected that $30 will be raised on the last Sunday of February.

—"Tilting" hoops could not have been the order of the day any more than "tilting" sleighs were during the last few weeks, in this neighborhood. Any one who has not experienced the excitement of an "upset" cannot tell how easy it is for one to make great mistakes.

—Now that the snow has drifted, ladies are advised not to ride in a sleigh along the fences, as protruding limbs of trees are apt to knock off a net or waterfall. The roads at this time, in this neighborhood, are just in a condition to give the impudent limbs a chance.

—A few days ago Miss Catharine Munce, of Washington county, swallowed a pin which she was holding in her mouth. The pin, going down foremost, stuck in the throat. After considerable trouble, the Doctor succeeded in pushing the pin downward into the stomach.

—A new regimen for pulmonary consumption has been discovered. Read the article on the first page of this issue. It is a simple remedy, but nevertheless it has been found to be effectual in many cases. Nothing will be lost by giving it a trial, and consumptives are advised to try it.

—The Ladies' Fair for the benefit of the Soldiers' Monument Fund, in Altoona, closed on Monday night of last week. It was a grand success. The entire receipts of the Fair will foot up in the neighborhood of $4,000, which amount, added to that already on hand, will give about $5000 for the erection of the Monument.

—We had the extreme fortune of trapping three rats in our cellar in the course of one afternoon last week—two inside of half an hour. The way it was done was to starve them a couple of days, and then set a common wire trap with an enticing piece of cheese for bait. The "varmints" are now not quite so numerous, by three at least.

—The editor of the Juniata Democrat, in noticing a sleighing party of which he (lucky printer) was one says: "The spirits of the party were buoyant." Who ever heard of buoyant spirits? Further on he says: "A considerable change had came over the spirit of the weather." Now, without being critical, which spirit are we to judge was the most buoyant of the two? We have enjoyed "some" sleigh rides, and recently too, but we never encountered a weather-spirit, nor would we want to. Anyhow, we think it would be too cold for him or her (which?) to be out in mid-winter.

Court Proceedings.

The following cases were tried at Court the week before last:

Commonwealth vs Hannah Mildoon. Indictment, larceny. District Attorney entered a nolle prosequi.

Nicholas Shank was charged with assault and battery. Recognizance forfeited.

Richard Burns, indicted for selling liquor without license, was found guilty, and fined $20 and costs.

Thomas Kelly and Wm. Smith were charged with nuisance. Found guilty.

Anthony McIntire, Philip McIntire, James Frew, et al, charged first with riot and secondly with assault and battery. True bill in first count, not true in second. Continued.

Daniel Flenner and John Givin were found guilty of a charge of nuisance.

Jacob Lynn charged first with incestuous fornication and bastardy and secondly, fornication and bastardy.—True bill. Not taken.

Bridget Donnelly was indicted first with keeping a tippling house, and second with selling liquor on Sunday.—True bill. Not taken.

Jacob Dorman was indicted for larceny, but not a true bill.

William J. Henry was charged first with larceny, and secondly with receiving stolen property. Continued.

Bridget Donnelly was charged with selling liquor to minors, but not being a true bill the county pays the costs. Bridget was also indicted for selling liquor to drunkards, but the bill was found not true, and county served to the costs.

Foster Henry and Joel Everhart, indicted first with felonious assault and battery, second with aggravated assault, and third with assault and battery, were found guilty on the second and third counts, and not guilty on the first. Sentenced to pay a fine of $1 each and cost, and undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary at hard labor for 13 months.

Nancy Albright indicted first for larceny, and second with receiving stolen goods. Found not guilty.

D. F. Jones, charged first with felonious assault, second, attempted felonious assault, and third, assault and battery. Acquitted on the ground of insanity. The Court committed Jones to safe custody and treatment in the State Lunatic Hospital.

Gotleib Bohner and Christopher Heckst, charged with larceny. Nolle prosequi entered for Christopher, and Gotleib found not guilty.

Gotlieb was again brought up for larceny, and was this time found guilty and sentenced to a fine of $1 and the costs, together with imprisonment for two years and one month in the Western Penitentiary.

Samuel Sankey, et al, were charged with assault. The bill was not true, and the prosecutor pays the costs.

Alex. Everhart and Michael Kuhn were charged with larceny, and plead guilty. Sentenced to six months imprisonment in the county jail.

John Knode was indicted for larceny but not a true bill.

Henry Lindsey was charged and convicted of assault and battery. Sentence postponed until February 25th.

Catharine Houck, Robert Houck, et al, were indicted for assault and battery. Not a true bill as to Mrs. Malson. Found guilty, but sentence deferred until February 25th.

Charles Ritter plead guilty to a charge of larceny, and submits to a fine of $1 and the costs, and imprisonment for 13 months in the penitentiary.

James Bricker was indicted first for fraudulent making any written instrument, and second, obtaining the signature of any one to any written instrument. Continued.

For Everybody.

If there are any of our readers who fail to read the advertisements that from time to time appear in the Globe, we will assure them that they miss much that is of use to them, pecuniarily as well as mentally. Are you in need of a house or farm, read the advertisements. Do you wish to know where the cheapest goods are sold, look at the advertisements. Have you a desire to make money by speculating, read the advertisements. Do you wish to know who is settling up accounts with everybody, read the advertisements. If there is anything you want to know, just advertise and you will soon hear from somebody, who takes delight in reading the advertisements in a newspaper. We generally find it to be the case that those who read the advertisements are the ones who advertise the most, simply because they see and acknowledge its usefulness.

Importance of Stamping Receipts.

E. A. Rollins, Commissioner, in a letter to A. P. Slonaker, Collector of Internal Revenue of the First District of Pennsylvania, says:—In answer to your letter of December 20th, asking who is required to stamp a receipt, I have to say that any person who issues an unstamped receipt, with the intent to evade the provisions of the law, becomes liable to the penalty of $50 in the law provided, and that the receipt so issued shall be deemed invalid, and of no effect. In relation to the other question asked by you, I would state that it is not believed to be incumbent upon this office to decide who shall pay for the stamp to be placed upon a receipt.

Who Won't be There?

A Festival and Grand Supper will be given at Alexandria on Wednesday and Thursday nights, February 6th and 7th, 1867—the proceeds to be applied to paying the debt on and improving the Alexandria Union Cemetery. Refreshments such as Oysters, Ice Cream, &c., will be served both nights. A grand supper will be given on Thursday night. All lovers of good cheer and fun are respectfully invited.

THE LATEST FASHIONS.—Since the invention and successful introduction of the Celebrated Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Hoop Skirt, by Mr. J. W. Bradley, of New York, the ladies throughout the country have given up the idea of discarding the fashion of wearing hoop skirts on account of the peculiar and graceful manner in which the Duplex Skirts adapt themselves to every exigency and emergency. So generally acceptable have these Skirts become that the ladies regard them as a special favorite, in view of the superior Flexibility, Lightness and Durability Combined in their Manufacture. They also consider them a far more Economical and Comfortable Hoop Skirt than ever has or can be made for all Crowded Assemblies, for Promenade or House Dress. Any lady after wearing one of these Skirts will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. Long experience in the Manufacture of Hoop Skirts, has proven to the proprietors of this invention, that Single-springs will always retain that stiff, unyielding and bungling style which has ever characterised them, whereas the Double Spring Hoop or the Duplex Elliptic, will be found Free from these objections. Notwithstanding the ability of the Manufacturers, Messrs. Wests, Bradley and Cary, to turn out over six thousand Skirts per day from their Large Manufactories in New York, they feel obliged to request all merchants ordering the Duplex Elliptic Skirts, to send their orders a few days before they are wanted, if possible, for they are most constantly oversold some days ahead.

Colored Woman's Deviltry!

The Johnstown Tribune says: On Wednesday afternoon last, during the brief absence from her residence of Mrs. George Statler, of the Fifth ward, a colored servant woman in the family, named Mrs. Emily Howard, who had been left in charge of the two youngest children, conveyed to the house of a colored neighbor several articles of Mrs. Statler's wearing apparel, including a crape shawl and silk dress, and then poured coal oil upon the best bed in the house and set fire to it! She also fired a lot of clothing hanging against the wall of the room. Having done this she raised an alarm of "fire." The neighbors rushed in, but not in time to prevent the feather bed, clothing, carpet, blinds, Mr. Statler's best cloth suit, a number of dresses, of value, several oil paintings, and other articles from being consumed. Had the alarm been delayed a few minutes, the whole house, which is partly occupied by Alexander Kennedy, would have been burnt, with probably, Mr. Statler's two little children. Mr. Statler informs us that Mrs. Howard, who hails from Pittsburgh, has been in his employ for some time, and was regarded by him and wife as a faithful domestic. Hence the confidence reposed in her.

The Lawyer in the School Room.

This remarkable little book, by M. McN. Walsh, A. M., L. I. B., (a New York lawyer), is full of useful and reliable information for everybody, but especially for teachers, school officers, parents, ministers, editors and members of the legal profession. The first chapter, "Of Schools and Governments," is a succinct explanation of the different plans adopted by governments, ancient and modern for the diffusion of knowledge among the people. This chapter, in some respects, is exceedingly suggestive, and not unworthy the attention of our most intelligent and experienced statesmen. It is not imaginative or speculative, but a plain, matter-of-fact statement, which, in spite of its plainness, has, to a mind capable of appreciating the subject, all the charm of romance. This chapter alone is worth many times the price of the book. For sale at Lewis' Book Store, price $1.00.

Criminals.

The four convicts, Foster Henry, Joel Everhart, Charles Ritter, and Gotleib Bohner, sentenced at last Court, were taken to their new quarters in Allegheny city by the Sheriff on Monday morning. It is needless to say the county paid their traveling expenses. Gotleib goes to stay two years and one month, the rest for one year and one month.

D. F. Jones, who was a dreadful man to make assaults on the spur of the moment, was cleared on account of insanity. He will be taken to the State Lunatic Asylum at Harrisburg, where he will remain at the expense of the county until he becomes sane enough not to molest his neighbor.

Alex. Everhart and Michael Kuhn are lodged in jail for six months, for picking up things which they thought was of more use to them than the owner. The county will board them so long as the jail holds them.

Quite a Mistake.

We published a local last week, prepared by a gentleman who misunderstood March & Bro., that they intended to close business in the spring. This was a great mistake. They wished to be understood as desirous of selling off their winter stock at great bargains to make room for new goods in the spring.

—A correspondent of the Mt. Union Times gives an account of the doings at Matilda Furnace, near that place, within the last nine months. He says "7328 cords of wood have been cut; 1808 tons of ore have been mined, 1133 tons of which was Fossil ore, and 675 tons Hematite; 405 tons of limestone have been quarried. Out of these raw materials, with a few tons of coke, we have made 750 tons of Pig Iron." He adds that "in that short time over 200,000 bushels of charcoal have been consumed. If the wood from which we made this coal was all in one rank, four feet high, it would reach over eleven miles."

—A neighboring cotemporary says: "Marriage and death notices are published free, though it is usually the custom to accompany the former with a dollar, either gold or greenback, or with a pound-cake, or at least to allow the printer-man to kiss the bride." It wouldn't be difficult to tell which alternative the "printer-man" prefers.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞Toothache in one minute.
☞Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞Rheumatism in one day,
☞Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞Fever and Ague in one day.
☞Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all these complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, appliable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use. J. H. McENTYRE,
Proprietor, Reading, Pa.

DR. LEON'S CELEBRATED PREPARATIONS.

THE PERFECTION OF MEDICAL SCIENCE.

Dr. Leon's Electric Hair Renewer.

It is a positive cure for Baldness.
It restores Gray Hair to its original color.
It is a Tonic, not a Dye, and acts upon the secretions.
It immediately arrests falling out of the hair.
It alleviates Neuralgia and Headache.
It radically cures Dandruff and Humors.
It keeps the scalp healthy, clean and cool.
It is an elegant and exquisitely fragrant Hair Dressing
It restores, cultivates and beautifies the hair.
It makes harsh hair flexible and lustrous.

Dr. Leon's Electric Hair Renewer has enjoyed a high local reputation for many years. Its wonderful restorative and invigorating properties are well known to the Medical Faculty of Philadelphia.

Being fully satisfied of the merits of Leon's Electric Hair Renewer we have procured exclusive ownership and are determined that every household in our land shall have opportunity to reap its benefits.

DR. LEON'S INFANT REMEDY.

A most delicious and efficacious cure for the various ills to which Infants and Young Children are subject.

Invaluable for Teething Children!

It softens the gums, abates inflammation, invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and is a sure and speedy cure for Colic, Cramps and Windy Pains.

A most excellent preparation for children of a restless and fretful habit, and in all cases of Looseness, Griping, Vomiting, or other inward grief, it gives immediate ease.

Used for more than half a century in the private practice of one of the most eminent physicians of Philadelphia.

In now placing this article within the reach of all our countrymen, we would remark that we know it to be a Remedy of unrivaled excellence and that it has proved in thousands of cases, as we are resolved it shall in millions, a priceless boon.

Glorious News!

$100 ADDITIONAL BOUNTY!!

NEW BOUNTY LAW PASSED!

Attention, Discharged Soldiers!

The Act of Congress approved July 28, 1866, gives $100 additional bounty to all soldiers who enlisted for three years and were discharged by reason of expiration of service, or who were discharged for wounds received in battle and who have not received more than $100 bounty for such service. An additional bounty of $100 is also allowed to the nearest relative of soldiers who enlisted for a term of three years and who died or were killed in the service, to be paid in the following order: First, to the widow; second, to the children; third, to the father, and fourth, to the mother.

Soldiers' Widows.

By applying to W. H. Woods, of Huntingdon, Huntingdon county, Pa., you can have your pensions increased two dollars a month for each and every child you have, and when the widow has married or died, the children are entitled to the increase.

To all who have brought home the bodies of their friends who died or were killed in the service of the United States, there is a certain amount of compensation allowed you for the expenses incurred in bringing home the bodies of your friends, which you can obtain by making application to me.

Invalid Soldiers, Attention!

The act of Congress, approved June 6, 1866, gives additional pensions to the following class of persons:

Soldiers who have lost both eyes or both hands, $25 per month; who have lost both feet $20 per month; who have lost one hand or one foot, or totally disabled in the same, $15 per month.

Persons who have been deprived of their pensions in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government, can be restored to the pension roll by applying to me.

Fathers and mothers who were in whole or in part dependent upon their sons for support are entitled to a pension. Also brothers and sisters under sixteen years of age

All discharged soldiers who did not receive transportation to their places of enlistment when discharged, are entitled to receive it; and also all who were held as prisoners of war, and did not receive commutation of rations when released or discharged, are entitled to it.

Officers who were in the service on the 2d of March, 1865, and were discharged after the 9th of April, 1865, by applying to me can receive three months extra pay.

Soldiers of 1812!

All soldiers, or soldiers' widows, of the war of 1812, who have served two months, or been wounded or disabled in such service, if in necessitous circumstances, are entitled to an annuity of $96.

Local Bounty.

All veteran soldiers who gave their credit to districts in the State of Pennsylvania, and who received no local bounty, are entitled to receive three hundred dollars.

All persons having any of the above mentioned claims, or any other kind of claim against the United States or State Governments, will please address me, giving full particulars, enclosing a stamp for return postage, and they will receive a prompt reply.

W. H. WOODS,

Authorized Army and Navy War-Claim Agent.

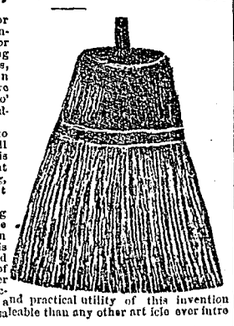
BROUGHER'S PATENT EXCELSIOR

BROOM HEAD OR WRAPPER.

PATENTED DECEMBER 26, 1866.

Everybody his own Broom Maker.



This head or Wrapper is constructed of Tin or Zinc, with sliding band and bolts, in connection with the centre bolt passing thro' the handle, holding it secure.

The article to which we call your attention is very simple, light and strong, weighing but SEVEN OUNCES.

The farming community have long needed an article of this character; and the high price of Brooms, together with the simplicity, durability, and practical utility of this invention makes it more saleable than any other article ever introduced.

☞ We offer borough, township, and family rights for sale on reasonable terms, in the county of Huntingdon.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

Thoughts for the Farmer.

Business First, and Pleasure After.

"Put the young horse in plow," said the farmer; and very much pleased he was to be in a team with Dobbin and the gray mare. It was a long field, and gaily he walked across it, his nose upon Dobbin's haunches, having hard work to keep at so slow a pace.

"Where are we going now?" he said, when he got to the top. "This is very pleasant."

"Back again," said Dobbin.

"What for?" said the young horse, rather surprised; but Dobbin had gone to sleep, for he could plow as well asleep as awake.

"What are we going back for?" he asked, turning round to the old gray mare.

"Keep on," said the gray mare, "or we shall never get to the bottom, and you'll have the whip at your heels."

"Very odd, indeed," said the young horse, who thought he had had enough of it, and was not sorry he was coming to the bottom of the field. Great was his astonishment when Dobbin, just opening his eyes, again turned, and proceeded, at the same pace, up the field again.

"How long is this going on?" asked the young horse.

Dobbin just glanced across the field, as his eyes closed, and fell asleep again, as he began to calculate how long it would take to plow it.

"How long will this go on?" he asked, turning to the gray mare.

"Keep up, I tell you," she said, "or you'll have me on your heels."

When the top came and another turn, and the bottom and another turn, the poor young horse was in despair; he grew quite dizzy, and was glad, like Dobbin, to close his eyes, that he might get rid of the sight of the same ground so continually.

"Well," he said, when the gears were taken off, "if this is your plowing, I hope I shall have no more of it."—But his hopes were in vain; for many days he plowed, till he got, not reconciled to it, but tired of complaining of the weary, monotonous work.

In the hard Winter, when comfortably housed in the warm stable, he cried out to Dobbin, as he was eating some delicious oats: "I say, Dobbin, this is better than plowing; do you remember that field? I hope I shall never have anything to do with that business again. What in the world could be the use of walking up a field just for the sake of walking down again? It's enough to make one laugh to think of it."

"How do you like your oats?" said Dobbin.

"Delicious!" said the young horse.

"Then please to remember, if there was no plowing, there would be no oats."

Making Butter in Winter.

Some families are quite successful in making butter in the winter season. Mr. Scott, of Vermont, believes that it may be made about as profitable when the cows are fed with the right kind of hay, as when they run in pasture.—But there are so many who think differently, who "don't have any luck in the winter," that milk is wasted every winter. A correspondent of the Rural American, whose wife has made butter every winter for ten years, and who has himself done all the churning in a common dasher churn, seldom occupying more than ten or fifteen minutes in the operation, condenses the secret of success, so far as the management of the milk and cream is concerned, into the following pithy sentences:

Cows should be kept warm and clean and in addition to plenty of sweet, early cut hay, milch-cows should be treated with warm slops and bran mashes, varied by roots and meal.—They should have plenty of fresh air and exercise, and be salted regularly once a week. The stables and cows must be well cleaned before milking, and the treatment of the cows be ruled by patience and gentleness. The milk, when strained, should be brought to a scalding heat and set in a warm place where it will not freeze. The cream should be taken off before the milk thickens, and be kept in as cool a place as it can be without freezing. Cream managed in this way will be very thick, and when put in the churn needs diluting, which should be done by adding warm milk, till, when well mixed, the temperature of the cream is such that a drop applied to the forehead will feel neither cold nor warm.

A Cool Farmer.

We have seen and heard of cool proceedings ere this, but the conduct of the Vermont agriculturist was positively "iced." He once sold a load of hay to his neighbor, who, contrary to his expectations, after seeing it weighed, stayed to see it unloaded. But a few forkfuls were off, when a bouncing rock rolled from the load; then another, and then a third, came bang upon the floor.

"What's this?" queried the dealer in a loud voice.

"Most all herd-grass this year," the deaf man replied.

"But, see here," continued the other, pointing to the boulders which lay arrayed in judgment against the dishonest hayman, "what does this mean?"

"Shan't cut nigh so much hay this year as I did last," replied the dealer in herd-grass.

Just as he had finished the last sentence, down thundered a rousing chunk of granite, making a deep indentation in the barn floor with one of its sharp angles.

"I say, neighbor N.," screamed the purchaser of granite. "I want to know what in the h—l these are?" pointing to the boulders and the big lump of granite.

Old N. took up a mighty forkful of the herd-grass, gave it a toss into the hay loft, then, leaning upon his fork, ejecting his huge quid of tobacco, and replacing with a fresh one, he took a view of the fragments of stone wall that lay before him, and, with one of the blandest smiles he replied: "Them's rocks."

☞ Paint all tools exposed to the weather, and if with a light colored paint, they will heat, warp and crack least in the sun.

☞ Dip the tips of nails in grease and they will easily drive into any hard wood where otherwise they would double and break.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs' upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.
